Abstract: It is known that the family is the most important part of society, and the young generation has the first idea about moral relations in the family and society. Every nation has rituals and traditions that are passed from generation to generation. Based on this historical consistency, the article discusses the role and place of family relations in the upbringing of the young generation.

Key words: family, morality, spirituality, education, upbringing, parents, child.

Introduction

The personal example of parents is very important in raising a child. Parents have a great responsibility for raising children in the family, preparing them for independent life and work. Today, studying the role of each family, the meaning of life, and national values serves human spirituality. For this, proper organization of child education in the family, deciding on a healthy lifestyle, requires deep knowledge and high responsibility. Because human relations start from family, family environment.

Materials

Undoubtedly, the role and influence of the family in shaping and raising the unique spirituality of any nation is incomparable. A person's pure and pure feelings, first life concepts and imaginations are formed first of all in the bosom of the family. The correct education in the family is initially carried out through the exemplary parents, their mutual warm and sincere relations.

Family education means, first of all, education of parents themselves. Father and mother are the pillars of the so-called family. The more mature and thorough the parent is, the stronger this fortress becomes. Therefore, in addition to giving birth to a child, his correct education and religious education depend on the parents' feeling of high responsibility.

The content of education comes from the content of education practiced and practiced in the best Uzbek families and family-school education by the state and society in the conditions of independence. Certain qualities can be inculcated and improved consistently in different situations, with the help of different means, and as a result, exemplary morals of boys and girls can be formed for the state and society, family, neighborhood, and school.

Everything should be called by its name, everything should have its place. In this regard, the following opinion of the ancient Chinese theologian and scientist Confucius is appropriate: As parents, children should be like children, and carpenters should be carpenters. Today's life itself shows how true these thoughts are. The signs of humanity, such as service to the motherland and country, are first formed in the family. The importance of the family in raising a perfect generation, a person of the new era is incomparable. In this regard, the personal example of parents is very important in raising children. Some events that happen in the family can have a positive or negative impact on the development and formation of the child's personality. A child sees and witnesses a lot of events in a day at home, in an educational institution, in the public, in the market, so it is necessary to give the child the attention of adults in the family first of all.

The First President of Uzbekistan, I.A. Karimov, put forward the following thoughts in his work "High spirituality - indomitable power": "Every sane person understands that as long as there is life in this bright world, there is a family. As long as there is a family, there is a great blessing called children. As long as there is a child, a person always lives with good dreams and aspirations".

Every person, people, nation recognizes its identity, first of all, in the family. He understands the echoes of his human life, struggles, aspirations, joys and pains. In addition, as stated in Qabusnama, the encyclopedia of eastern philosophy, the family is the center of education, intelligence, and wisdom of the people. There is such a pedagogical expression, that is, when a person thinks that in adolescence - my parents do not know much, in youth - my parents know nothing, in middle age - my parents know some things, in old age my parents know everything. That is why it is necessary to pay special attention to the education of children in their youth. It's good to have everything on time, there's nothing worse than wasting time and regretting it later.

Among our national traditions, traditions related to child education occupy a particularly important place. According to experts, the pure appearance of our nation is reflected in children. Correct education in the family is carried out on the basis of exemplary, meaningful, spiritual, warm, mutual relations of parents. Literacy of parents and other family members in the family, reading works of art, watching spiritual and educational shows, informing them about their family relations has a positive effect on the child's upbringing.

Conclusion

Proper formation of family relations, adapting them to the existing conditions, and when negative situations occur, eliminating them with deep considerations naturally occupy an important place in the spiritual and moral education of young people.

In Uzbekistan, a democratic legal state and a just civil society will be built by young people with high morals. We all understand and realize that "A country that unites people in order to achieve true happiness is a virtuous country, and a nation that sees the education of growing boys and girls as the greatest goal is a virtuous nation," said Abu Nasr Farabi.

Independent thinking, political and spiritual achievements of our youth, perception of today's fiercely complex world, striving for family harmony, without a word, can be a reason not to believe in the enmity of others against any person. Only then, as we expect, the family will have a strong foundation.
