Patriotism is a concept that represents people's love and loyalty to their homeland, their own. Patriotism is one of the universal feelings and spiritual values common to all peoples, peoples, and nations that have been counted for centuries. Historically, patriotism is a collection of emotions that have been improved in the process of social development related to the fate of their homeland, the struggle of the peoples for the insecurity and independence of the area where they live. This is reflected in pride in the past and present of the homeland and in protecting its interests. They did not say to the weak that loving God is a faith. Patriotic people are very common in our country. For example, even though Abdullah Avloniy lived during his years of assassination, freedom of speech was very prevalent in him. Mahmoud Ahmadinejad Behbudiy, who is known in our country for his children's teaching books. His work on teaching children a Foreign language, producing literacy, and other teachings deserves to be distributed. Flag of the first issue: Before talking about patriotism, it is intended to explain the concept of God. The fatherland is actually an Arabic word meaning the land, in that sense, Uzbekistan is the homeland of the Uzbek people, a sacred shrine: The world has become my chameleon manim, my homeland of Uzbekistan is manim. The fatherland is a sacred place where man and his descendants shed little blood. The fatherland is a place of ancestors, a land where the people grew up, whose language, history, culture, traditions, and values were truly formed, growing, and perfected. When the fatherland was born, a land where we were always born, opened our eyes, educated, lived, and where our descendants and ancestors lived and their intellect and intellect were spent. The fatherland is as precious and blessed as the mother. The fatherland is a land of happiness for man. Abdullah Avloniy recalls: "The city and the land where a snowman grew up are called the homeland of a shul man. Who has been born into the snow, and who leans over his life where he grew up. Just as we Turks suck our homeland more than our lives, the Arabs support The Arabians, the sandy hot deserts, the old-fashioned northern sides, the coldest snow and glaciers from other countries. If they had not been thirsty, they would have left their homeland and emigrated to those whose air was good." The fatherland is the past, the today, and the past of the people. Homeland is a sacred value. Progress begins with the homeland. It is a place where man's little blood is shed, an address that preserves a person from social eternity, a place of spiritual perfection and civilization, a school of life, a furnace of prosperity and happiness. The homeland for man is one. The fatherland will not be small or rich. Homeland is not selected. The fatherland is not our property. That is why it is not sold and bought for money. The fatherland will not be given, nor will it be debted. The fatherland is sacred and blurry for every citizen. The phrase used by our President Islam Trump reads: "The Father is as sacred as a shrine." It is our duty as children to elevate the fatherland over our heads like the highest blessing, rub its soil in the eyes every ten and every second, and bow down to it. The Holy Scriptures say: "It is faith to love God." That is, everyone whose faith is idols and consciences is pure will love his homeland, protect him from the eyes of bloodshed, fight for his survival and survival, and dignity. It is difficult to express in words the heritage of the fatherland, the spirit of the homeland, its abundance, and its abundance, and a perfect man of snow does not spare everything, even his sweet soul, for the perfection and destination of his homeland, the freedom and independence of his land. In this regard, Fuzhouli, I have one life, and even if I had a thousand lives, I would have spent it all on my homeland, and what he said was a blessing to each of us. During the Shoors, feelings of national interest, love for their homeland, and the earth began to fade. The concept of "fatherland" became a subjective generality, and the imprisonment was directed to the interests of "Umumsovet," a nation of snow, and the people did not have the right to renege on their homeland, which had been living for thousands of years. Eventually, during the Soviet era, the peoples living in this country, including the Soviets, were forced to live as beetles in their homeland. Erkin Vohidov, a national writer of Uzbekistan, expresses this in his "Hope of God": If my name is Erkin, neither government nor kingdom for man, nor crown throne, nor can anything be translated into God or in the land. Jews from the fatherland are a great misfortune for a person. A person can feed his stomach on a piece of bread anywhere he wants. Nothing can replace the Fatherland. Living in a homeland is a real happiness. Thanks to independence, we have found our true homeland. This is the highest level of independence we have ever seen. The people whose homeland is independent will itself be independent. The earth of a free and free man will be in his own hands. History has entrusted a great task to the descendants of the people of Uzbekistan, such as you today. It is to strengthen the power of our Father, spread his courage over the world, and add fame to his fame. In this way, the fatherland relies on self-sacrificing patriots, such as you, and it is our duty to our descendants and descendants to leave a free and prosperous homeland for generations where one of our snowflakes will come from us with our creativity, creativity, and honesty. National independence has been an important factor in the restoration of patriotic weddings in our people, especially in our growing perfect generation. We would like to discuss these below. First of all, modern self-patriotism is a continuation of the creative work of our forefathers. Adding a share every minute to the great Uzbekistan is now an original manifestation of love for the country and patriotism. Being a worthy child to godly devotion, understanding that we are intertwined with his earth, water, hand, and following him are also a manifestation of patriotism and a scarlet-colored wild beast. The hypocrites of the past separately noted patriotism as the highest feather, and they themselves stuck to it. We will now recall some of these records. Tsitseron (Rumo's unscrupulous and philosopher). Parents, children, and close-knit people are precious to us, and all our imaginations in the chapter of love are embodied in the word "Father." IF Anyone is self-sufficient in godly devotion, which conscientious person would hesitate to give his life for him!
